Meliaputti is a village and a Mandal in Srikakulam district of Andhra Pradesh. Venugopalaswamy temple at Meliaputti was built by Smt. Vishnupriya Maharani wife of Maharaja Sri Veera Veerendra Pratap Rudra Gajapati of Parlakimidi during 1810 with the money (2 lacs at that time) given from her parental side at the time of her marriage. It took 10 yrs to get completed as per her wishes.

It is only after 1956 Maharajah Sri Krishna chandra Gajapathi allowed public into the temple after taking written agreement from the village elders just to avoid inappropriate incidents.

Gajapati Palace of Paralakhemundi or Brundabana Palace, located at Paralakhemundi, of Gajapati district, Odisha

The palace was built by Maharaja Krushna Chandra Gajapati, the Gajapati ruler of that time. It is believed that the Paralakhemundi ruler started building the palace to enhance the beauty of the state. The concept of building the sight was finalized on 20 May 1835. As regards its historical importance, the seeds of a separate statehood for the Odia-speaking people were germinated in the Gajapati Palace precincts.

A group of approximately 15 people, including men, women, and children, are standing in a line in front of a large, ornate white building with multiple domes and arches. The building is identified as the Paralakhemundi or Brundavana Palace. The group is dressed in a mix of traditional Indian attire like sarees and modern clothing. The scene is set outdoors on a sunny day with trees visible in the background.

Paralakhemundi or Brundavana Palace, located at Paralakhemundi, of Gajapati district, Odisha, is the fort of Gajapati rulers where they used to stay. Nowadays the property is under the protection of Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage (INTACH). The palace is one of the rich architectural and cultural heritage of India. This palace was built for a purpose of permanent residential abode for the Gajapati Rulers of Paralakhemundi.
